

Were we to search the world around

Anon.

Hymn on a plentiful harvest

Martin's Lane, anon. (1784)
Edited by Tim Henderson and Francis Roads

1. Were we to search the world a - round, Say, can such
2. Here com - merce spreads her weal - thy store, Col - lect - ed
3. Pa - rent of good! Al - migh - ty King! From Thee our
4. Long as the moon her course shall run, Or man be - hap - pi - ness be found As dwells in Brit - ain's fa - vour'd isle?

6
from each for - eign shore; Sci - ence and art their charms dis - play;
match - less bless - ings spring! Th'ex - ten - ded trade, the fruit - ful skies,
- hold the circ - ling sun, O! still may God in Bri - tain reign,

13
For free - dom reigns, for plen - ty sheds Her choic - est bless - ings Re - lig - ion gives us, here to raise Our voi - ces to our
The rap - ture lib - er - ty be - stows, Th'et - er - nal joys the Crown all her meas - ures with suc - cess, With plen - ty still her

20
Symphony
on our heads, And bids our fruit - ful val - leys smile.
Mas - ter's praise, As truth and con - science point the way.
Gos - pel shows, All from thy boun - teous good - ness rise.
bor - ders bless, And all her sac - red rights main - tain.

From James Harris of Greenwich: A Compendious National Psalmody, Including Chants, Responses to the Commandments and the Hymns as used at the Royal Naval Asylum Chapel, Greenwich (1843)

Creative Commons licence: for details see <www.rodningmusic.co.uk>. You may copy for non-commercial use.
More free downloads are available from Roding Music.